

Healthcare related services and products accessible to everyone

The problem we solve

For many around the globe, access to quality healthcare related products and services can be challenging. The ClinicAll solution is to give everyone who joins our community access a worldwide repository of healthcare related products and services.

What is the CHC Community

- A Blockchain supported Utility Token based social network and commercial exchange for the healthcare community
- Linking members and suppliers of healthcare goods and services in a way that enables token holders worldwide access to goods and services and suppliers to achieve a fair return

We intend to open the doors to a new world.

The CHC Health Community is designed to be a gateway linking service to connect product providers worldwide with community members. As a member, you will have full access not only to ClinicAll services but to all community service and product partners and their offerings.

Once fully enabled, the ClinicAll Health token purchaser will be able to use them as payment for goods and services within the ClinicAll Health Community. This worldwide platform is designed to provide you with more affordable access to healthcare-related services and product providers.

The intended scope of goods and services is broad. First it includes the existing ClinicAll-enabled in-hospital patient entertainment and infotainment services. In addition, it extends to services which promote comfort and well-being to patients and their friends and family both in and out of the hospital.
